is largely a question of vitality and the preservation of the faculties. If you constantly waste nerve force and strain your eyes through some defect of vision, you are sapping your vitality.

Ancient Hawaiian Funeral Rites

MIDNIGHT PROCESSION ESCORTS THE BODY OF PRINCE DAVID KA-WANAKOHA TO THE FORMER PALACE THRONE ROOM—EM-BLEMS ARE INSTALLED AND GUARD OF HONOR TAKES ITS STATION—OFFICIALS TO ATTEND THE FUNERAL.

Accompanied by all the ceremonies which are attendant at the funeral services of Hawaiian royalty, all that was mortal of the late Prince David Kawanakoha was removed from his late home on Pensacola street at 12:11 this morning, and conveyed to the throne room in the Executive building where it is lying in state today surrounded by all the symbols of ancient days. As soon as darkness had fallen over the city last night the mourners, chiefly Hawaiians and friends of the late Prince and Princess, began to arrive and by eleven o'clock all the available seating space on the broad lanais were filled, while hundreds of people were seated on the grounds straining their eyes to see the sacred rites which were being celebrated in honor of the dead prince.

Shortly before twelve o'clock the kahili bearers and the others who were in the room where the body has been lying since its arrival last Monday, left the room and took their stand on the lanai just outside of the room at the head of the steps leading to the main grounds. The casket borne on the shoulders of twelve of his former friends was carried slowly to the waiting hearse which was ready to convey it to the throne room.

The funeral party moved shortly after twelve-fifteen, and it was some time after one before the cortege arrived at the executive grounds. The throne room had been prepared under the direction of Ernest Parker to receive the remains, and flowers, potted palms and plants were placed around the room in artistic taste. One hundred and seven kahilis, both large and small, were placed around the room, while at the head of the casket two silver candlesticks, each bearing five wax candles, were placed on each side of the tabu stick, while in front of that a pillow bearing royal decorations rested, and on the top of the casket was the feather cloak of priceless value. A guard of honor was placed in the room composed of officers of the National Guard and the different Hawaiian societies. Before ten o'clock this morning the people began to arrive in the grounds and from that time on until two o'clock a steady stream of people passed through the throne room to take a last view of the remains. Everything is in readiness for the funeral tomorrow which will be a very impressive ceremony.

Following is a list of officials who will attend the funeral services of Prince David Kawanakoha on Sun-

HOW WILL YOU DECORATE?

There is a great chance for merchants to save money on their decorations. Mr. Sadler, manager of a large decorating firm has brought to Honolulu eight tons of material for decorating purposes. He has with him artistic decorators who will put up the material and take it down when the fest has gone. You are saved all the trouble of designing and do not have left on your hands a lot of bunting and flags that are usually a dead loss. Your decorating expenses will be cut in half.
Mr. Sadler has taken the store at 920 Fort street, C. J. Hutchins' former office, and will be pleased to show his material and make estimates for decorating your places of business.

BUSINESS WOMAN OF MELBOURNE

Had a Dry Hacking Cough, Doctors Failed to Cure. Took Peruna and Got Well.

Mrs. L. E. Trensky, proprietor of the Great Unknown Private Detective Agency, 175 William street, Melbourne, Victoria (Australia), writes: "For over three years I suffered with a dry, hacking cough, and seemed to always have a cold.
"Although I consulted doctors and also joined two lodges, I could get no relief.
"At night time it was impossible to get any sleep. I was constantly calling at chemists' shops and getting draughts which only gave me relief for a couple of hours.
"But I can honestly say, since using Peruna I have been restored to perfect health, and will always recommend it to those I come in contact with."
In a postscript, Mrs. Trensky adds: "I am a well known business woman with at least a thousand clients on my books, and the majority know how I suffered. In fact, it was one of my clients who recommended Peruna to me."

A dry hacking cough is Nature's danger signal.
It indicates that there is some deep seated point of irritation within the larynx or bronchial tubes.
It is frequently the first manifestation of tuberculosis. It is sometimes an indication of organic disease of the heart.
Institious bronchitis is soon brought on by a dry, hacking cough.
Such a symptom should not be ignored.
Ordinary cough medicines do not relieve such a cough.
It requires some medicine that goes to the root of the matter.

The following wholesale druggists will supply the retail trade:
